Soap and loofah with Argan oil

The brown soap with Argan oil is part of everyday life. Whether in the form of laundry detergent, detergent, shampoo, shower gel or simply soap, it is an integral part of our daily lives! It is said to have magical powers: It washes or removes stains, It moisturizes, It smells good. If it has long suffered from a bad reputation, we now know that associated with a well-moisturizing body care, this soap is the most natural and effective daily care.

Conservation of brown lentils soap with argan oil: Once started, a soap (traditional or surgras) can be stored for about twenty-four months. Perfectly stable, it ages well and does not lose any of its qualities from one year to another as long as it is well stored, except in stagnant water. Tips and tricks : A soap that melts quickly is not a good soap, nor is it a good soap if it splits over time. If it softens very quickly, it is because it contains too much water and did not dry long enough during its manufacture. Its "heart" did not have time to harden.
