The brown lentil soap with argan oil

Brown lentil soap with argan oil 150g :

The brown lentil soap with argan oil is an element of everyday life. Whether it is in the form of laundry detergent, detergent, shampoo, shower gel or simply soap, it is an integral part of our daily lives!
He is said to have magical powers:

The one to wash or remove stains,
The one to hydrate.
The one to smell good.

If it has long suffered from a bad reputation (soap damages and scours the skin...), we now know that combined with a well moisturizing body care, soap is the most sensual and natural of daily care.

No other beauty product comes so close to us. The brown lens soap with argan oil glides on the skin, marries the full and hollow of our body, leaving a velvety and fragrant trail that only the most intimate can breathe.

Conservation of brown lentil soap with argan oil:

Once started, a soap (traditional or surgras) can be kept for about twenty-four months.

Perfectly stable, it ages well and loses none of its qualities from one year to the next as long as it is well preserved, except in stagnant water.

Tips & Advice

A soap that melts quickly is not a good soap.

Ditto if it splits over time.

If it softens very quickly, it is because it contains too much water and did not dry long enough during its manufacture. His "heart" did not have time to harden.
